

Can I Be Blunt?

THE QUEEN OF MEAN, LISA LAMPANELLI, HAS SOME THINGS TO GET OFF HER CHEST.

1.

Yes, I'm famous. But no, I can't get you a reality show about your hair salon. If that's what you want, go blow a Bravo executive like everybody else.

2.

I don't believe in the "don't ask, don't tell" policy—unless it applies to your latest golden shower story.

3.

By the way, when it comes to Queen Latifah, it's not "don't ask, don't tell." It's "don't ask, it's obvious."

4.

Comedy 101: (1) Tragedy + Time = Funny. (2) Gay + Anything = Funny.

5.

Admit it, Streisand is just a whiny Jew.

6.

Every Filipino is at least a little gay.

7.

I don't understand why the rainbow is the gay flag. The gay flag should be brown with a red dot.

8.

Giving a reach-around does not qualify as a charitable contribution to write off on your taxes.

9.

I don't mind when you say a dress looks bad on me. However, I do get pissed when it looks better on you.

10.

I don't care what they say—straight guys are at least a little flattered when you hit on them.

Lampanelli's new book, Chocolate, Please: My Adventures in Food, Fat, and Freaks, is available now from HarperCollins.
